Meet Our Keynote Speaker
Sunny Schwartz

Sunny Schwartz is a nationally recognized expert in criminal justice reform. She has devoted more than 35 years to changing traditional incarceration and reentry within jails, prisons, and post-release from idle wasted time to integrating programs that are designed to foster self-determination, accountability, victim empathy, and restoration for all those who are impacted by crime.

Sunny is the author of the best-selling book, Dreams from the Monster Factory: A Tale of Prison, Redemption, and One Woman’s Fight to Restore Justice to All, a personal memoir that includes the creation of Resolve to Stop the Violence Project (RSVP). This internationally recognized and award-winning restorative justice program brings together victims, offenders, and the community in an effort to heal the harm caused by violence and other crimes.

Sunny is also the founder of the Five Keys Charter School; the first-of-its-kind charter school located inside a county jail. Today, Five Keys Schools and Programs delivers education, employment, and counseling services to more 5,000 people, including 70 community schools in Northern and Southern California.

Both RSVP and Five Keys won the prestigious “Innovations in America Government Award,” sponsored by Harvard’s Kennedy School of Government and the Ash Institute.

Sunny, RSVP, and Five Keys have been featured on national and international television including the Oprah Winfrey Show, the Discovery Channel, PBS, Larry King Live, and hundreds of national and international radio programs and publications.

On behalf of the entire Sacramento County Sheriff’s Department, I would like to personally welcome you to the American Jail Association’s 37th Annual Conference & Jail Expo here in Sacramento, California. Corrections is a vital component of law enforcement and is essential to the health and welfare of each of our communities. The intricacies, dynamics, and constant changes in the field of corrections require more than ever that correctional and law enforcement agencies share ideas and best practices to maximize safety, security, and positive outcomes.

Regardless of your agency’s size, geographic location or political climate, all correctional institutions face similar challenges. I encourage each of you to learn from your experiences during this conference and to share your solutions, innovations, and ideas. Collaboratively, we can strengthen this profession and provide higher quality services to those in our custody, while also ensuring the safety of the communities we serve.

Your decision to attend this conference speaks to your professionalism and dedication. There will be countless opportunities to network with colleagues, discover new technologies, and improve your corrections expertise every day during the conference. I have absolute confidence the topics, speakers, and panels will be of the highest quality and provide valuable information you can utilize during your career.

I wish all of you the very best during your stay here in Sacramento and hope you take time to enjoy the capital of California and all it has to offer. Thank you for attending the AJA Annual Conference & Jail Expo!

On behalf of the Board of Directors and the staff of the American Jail Association, I welcome you to Sacramento, the capital city of California, for AJA’s 37th Annual Conference & Jail Expo. I encourage you to make the most of your time here, learning, networking, and sharing ideas and strategies with peers and leaders from jails across the Nation.

The Conference Planning Committee, under the leadership of Elias Diggins, has worked diligently to select more than 70 workshops led by some of the most knowledgeable professionals in the field of corrections. Each of these workshops offers valuable insight that will benefit us as we strive to embrace change and work toward the safety of our facilities and our communities.

I encourage you to visit this year’s Jail Expo, which features more than 200 vendors providing information, equipment, and innovative ways to assist us in our daily operations. Please take a moment to stop and thank our vendors—this conference would not be possible without their support.

Don’t forget to attend AJA’s Annual Awards Banquet on Tuesday evening, when we recognize seven individuals for their exceptional performance and their efforts to ensure their organizations continue to grow professionally.

In closing, I would like to extend my sincere thanks to everyone who has made this conference possible, from the fine folks of Sacramento, including the Sacramento County Sheriff’s Office, to the workshop presenters and moderators, to the Conference Planning Committee and the AJA staff. Lastly, I thank you for attending, and I hope that you find the conference to be a fulfilling experience.

Sincerely,

John W. Johnson, MBA, CJM, CPM

The American Jail Association’s Board of Directors and Conference Planning Committee would like to welcome you to Sacramento, California, for AJA’s 37th Annual Conference & Jail Expo. Just as “The Golden State” has much to offer visitors, so does this conference have much to offer attendees.

The Conference Planning Committee spent countless hours identifying and developing workshops that are relevant to the challenges faced by today’s corrections professionals. The conference offers more than 70 such workshops, including the four on Sharing Solutions Saturday. I would like to offer my sincere thanks to the track managers and presenters, whose contributions and expertise make it possible to provide you with the information and tools to successfully operate your jails.

Other events are also scheduled during these five days. Please take advantage of the opportunity to tour the facilities of our host agency, the Sacramento County Sheriff’s Department. Sheriff Scott R. Jones and his staff operate two separate correctional facilities, and they have many reasons to be proud of their work. And don’t forget to visit the Jail Expo, where you can examine the latest products, technologies, and services that are available for corrections facilities. It is the hope of the Conference Planning Committee that you take advantage of the many opportunities provided, and that what you learn offers you a “Roadmap to the Future.”

If you get the chance, please say a word of thanks to our workshop presenters, the staff at AJA, and our host agency. It is through their hard work and dedication to our profession that this conference is possible.

Thank you for attending this year’s conference and supporting AJA.

Sincerely,

Elias Diggins, CJM, CCE
Conference Planning Committee Chair
For more than 40 years, our customers have trusted us to deliver the innovative products, services and technologies they need to operate safely and efficiently. We are committed to providing outstanding customer service and value the lasting partnerships we’ve created.
Welcome

It is my pleasure to welcome you to Sacramento, California, for the American Jail Association’s 37th Annual Conference & Jail Expo. By attending our conference, you are showing your commitment to the corrections profession. As always, the conference offers workshops that feature high-quality, relevant content. The Conference Planning Committee has put together more than 70 workshops this year. Our Jail Expo is packed with companies that offer products and services for every jail administrator and officer. Be sure to meet with our vendors to discuss how they can help you to better operate your jail.

There are several new offerings at this year’s conference:

- iConnect Live! is a space where attendees can gather informally to discuss strategies and share solutions for everyday occurrences in our Nation’s jails.
- The “Share Your Success” initiative is a poster display that highlights the ways in which jails met challenges with an innovative practice, a technological approach, or a new way of addressing an issue.
- Certified Jail Manager testing is offered on Wednesday for those who are pre-approved to take the exam. The paper-and-pencil examination is proctored by the Jail Manager Certification Commission.

This conference would not be possible without the hard work and dedication of the Conference Planning Committee, the Sacramento County Sheriff’s Department, and the AJA staff. For all of their behind-the-scenes efforts that make this an outstanding conference, I extend my thanks.

I also thank each and every one of you for your contributions to public and civil service. I look forward to meeting you on the conference floor.

Enjoy your stay in Sacramento.

Sacramento County Sheriff’s Department operates two separate correctional facilities: the Sacramento County Main Jail and the Rio Cosumnes Correctional Center (RCCC).

Completed in 1989, the Main Jail is an eight-story, twin-tower complex located in downtown Sacramento. The original construction was a pod design with 1,252 beds and 4 courtrooms. Immediately, 430 cells were double-bunked, increasing the capacity to 1,682 beds. Today, nearly all cells have been double-bunked with the current count standing at 2,412.

Also a pre-sentence facility, the Main Jail houses Federal, State, and county inmates, both male and female, and averages 100 bookings per day. Full-time medical and psychiatric units are located on the second and third floors, including an 18-bed in-patient psychiatric unit. Also located on the third floor is an intensive out-patient psychiatric program. This is a new program designed as a “step-down” for inmates who are in crisis, helping them integrate back into the general population of the facility.

The RCCC is located 27 miles south of Sacramento on a 140-acre parcel of land owned by the County of Sacramento. Constructed in 1960 with a capacity of 750 inmates, the facility was designed as barracks with bunkbeds, but now incorporates single and double cells as well. RCCC houses minimum-, medium-, and maximum-security inmates, both male and female, with a daily average population of 2,000, primarily county-sentenced inmates.

RCCC is progressive in its approach to rehabilitate, offering a variety of educational, vocational and behavioral classes. Some of its programs include culinary arts, employment readiness and life skills, custodial training, horticulture and landscaping, welding, the Sacramento wild horse program, and an engraving/print shop.

How to Get a Leg Up: The Benefits of Certification and How It Is the Pathway to Promotion and Accreditation

302–303 | Tuesday, 3:45 p.m.–5:15 p.m.

The members of the Jail Manager Certification Commission (JMCC) and Correctional Trainer Certification Commission (CTCC) present AJA’s certification programs and discuss the personal and professional benefits of each. Be prepared for a lively discussion as they talk about trends in the industry and how certification can help you “get a leg up” in local corrections.

Q&A with the Commissioners

iConnect Live | Monday, 3 p.m.–4 p.m.

Participants can ask anything about certification and the process of applying and taking the examination. Bring a cup of coffee, a pen, and your application. This workshop allows you to work one-on-one with a commissioner, or just come and pick their brains about what to expect.

REMINDER: For those who are pre-approved, the Certified Jail Manager examination is on Wednesday, April 25 at the Hyatt Regency Sacramento in the Tahoe room.

AJA Membership = BIG SAVINGS

Suitcasing HURTS!

It’s called “suitcasing,” and it hurts...everyone.

Suitcasing occurs when a company does not purchase a booth in the Jail Expo. Instead, company reps “do business” by walking the Jail Expo and common areas. This unfortunate business practice hurts—

- AJA, because it takes away legitimate revenue—revenue needed to host a conference of this quality.
- Our exhibitors, because they followed the rules and showed their support by contributing their fair share.
- Our industry, because it threatens the benefits of a one-of-a-kind annual event that brings jail professionals face-to-face with new and emerging products and services.
- Even the suitcasing companies themselves, because their actions place them in a bad light.

If you suspect someone of suitcasing, please see an AJA staff member or a member of the AJA Board of Directors.

Thank you.
